

PASSED "QUEER" QUARTERS. OUR THEATRES NEXT WEEK.

Angela Clement Thought a Member of a Counterfeiter's Gang.

East Side Flooded with Bad Coins of Almost Perfect Make.

The United States Secret Service officers have been on a quiet search for some time to locate a gang of Italian counterfeiters who have been flooding the east side with counterfeit coin. They make a specialty of 2-cent pieces, and their work is so perfect that it requires an expert to detect it.

Last night an Italian woman, accompanied by a little girl, entered the toy store of Isaac Schorsch, 8 Avenue D, and purchased a rubber ball. She tendered a 2-cent piece, which Schorsch thought was counterfeit, and refused. She left the store and he, being suspicious, followed her.

She next visited the grocery of Charles J. Prew, in the fact that John P. Walsh, Jr., rendered bills for $1,000.00 during 1893, in addition to the $1,000.00 for 1892.

It is possible, in the face of the Government reports, that no repairs on boilers or engines had been made, but the cost of repairing would naturally expend in the twelve months on the tugs Dassori and Municipal?

The bills for repairs on the tugs were awarded, and also show that John P. Walsh, Jr., was paid $1,000.00 during 1893, in addition to the $1,000.00 for 1892.

The officers and men on board the tugs Dassori and Municipal are ready to make affidavits that no such repairs as stated in the reports were ever made on these tugs.

The most remarkable thing about this tug business is the fact that John P. Walsh, Jr., says they are unseaworthy and cannot be used, and that it will require $7,000 to put them in good condition.

It is not unlikely that the Secretary of the Treasury will make an investigation.

A GOVERNMENT COMMAND FOR REPAIRS TO A CITY TUGBOAT IN THE HANDWRITING OF JOHN F. WALSH, JR.

tion of the case of John F. Walsh, Jr., who it appears has been doing some contract work for the Government, a local importer of steam vessels makes his annual report of inspections to the United States Government and the corporation of New York City. If he orders repairs made on vessels, such orders must be contained in his inspection report.

Contrary to these Government regulations, John F. Walsh, Jr., on Sept. 25 last, wrote the following order on a printed Government blank, which was delivered to the Street-Cleaning Department as an authority voucher of warrant:

Steam Vessel Inspection Service.

Department of Local Government.

New York, N. Y., Sept. 25, 1893.

Work required on steamer Dassori. Repairing at after tank and new others leading to pilot house.

JOHN F. WALSH, Jr., Assistant Inspector.

Walsh, Jr., having written it out and getting his father to sign it as a Government officer.

He signed the city and other papers written by Walsh, Jr., have been compared with this order to prove the identity of the young man's handwriting.

The young man, John F. Walsh, Jr., ordered to do it, and which he promptly performed, was, as stated, to repair a bit of ceiling and build new stairs to the after tank, which John F. Walsh, Jr., was paid $100.00.

The captain of the Dassori, in the employ of the Street-Cleaning Department at Seventy-seventh street, could have done the work ordered in half a day.
